The performance quoted represents past performance, which does not guarantee future results. Current performance may be lower or higher than the performance data quoted. Net returns are reduced by all fees, transaction costs and are gross of foreign withholding taxes. Performance includes reinvestment of dividends and other earnings. Gross returns are shown as supplemental information and do not reflect the deduction of trading costs which are bundled with wrap fees. The Russell MidCap® Growth Index measures the performance of the mid-cap growth segment of the U.S. equity universe. It includes those Russell MidCap® Index companies with higher price-to-book ratios and higher forecasted growth values. The index is unmanaged, and does not reflect the deduction of expenses, which have been deducted from the Model's returns. The index's return assumes reinvestment of all distributions and dividends; you cannot invest directly in an index.

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE & STRATEGY

The Mid Cap Growth portfolio seeks to achieve a return equal to or greater than the Russell MidCap® Growth Index. Historically, mid-cap stocks have offered higher rates of return than large-cap stocks but lower rates of return than small-cap securities. Mid-cap stocks have also been more volatile than large-cap stocks but less volatile than small-cap stocks. The portfolio invests in companies that the manager expects to grow and appreciate at levels faster than the overall economy and stock market. Portfolio companies have successful business models and are competitively differentiated, as determined by the portfolio manager. Investment success is attained by building a concentrated portfolio of companies that have attractive long-term opportunities and that operate in favorable industry sectors.

WHY MID CAP GROWTH STOCKS?

Mid cap growth stocks are attractive for their balance of growth potential and relative stability. Representing companies with market capitalizations typically between $2 billion and $10 billion, these stocks offer substantial growth opportunities. They are often well-established enough to mitigate some of the risks associated with small cap stocks but still possess significant room for expansion and innovation.

Investing in mid cap growth stocks can provide a sweet spot in a diversified portfolio. These companies have generally moved beyond the volatile early stages of development, offering more stability than small cap stocks. At the same time, they can grow faster than large cap stocks, which are often more mature and have less room for rapid expansion.

Investing involves risk, including the possible loss of principal. Please read the following important disclosures.

Mid-cap stocks could fall out of favor and returns would subsequently trail returns from the overall stock market. Investing in dividend yielding stocks could fall out of favor and returns would subsequently trail returns from the overall stock market.

Moreover, to the extent that a portfolio favors a growth style, the risk is that the values of growth securities may be more sensitive to changes in current or expected earnings than the values of other securities. To the extent a portfolio uses a value style, the risk is that the market will not recognize a security's intrinsic value for a long time, or that a stock judged to be undervalued may actually be appropriately priced.

Investments in securities involve risks and there is no guarantee that a strategy will achieve its objectives. As with all stock investments, you may lose money investing in a portfolio. Azzad's portfolios generally avoid companies in certain economic sectors and businesses due to Azzad's socially responsible investment restrictions. Therefore, their performance may suffer if these sectors and/or businesses outperform the overall stock market.

Each portfolio is nondiversified and may invest a larger percentage of its assets in fewer companies exposing it to more volatility and/or market risk than a diversified portfolio. Each portfolio is generally available only through one of Azzad's asset allocation strategies and is not designed by itself to be a comprehensive, diversified investment plan.

All of Azzad's models are actively managed. Active trading of securities may increase your account's short-term capital gains or losses, which may affect the taxes you pay. Short-term capital gains are taxed as ordinary income under federal income tax laws.

When reviewing your actual performance, holdings and asset allocation, note that different accounts, even though they are traded pursuant to the same strategy, can have varying results. The reasons for this include: i) the period of time in which the accounts are active; ii) the timing of contributions and withdrawals; iii) the account size; iv) the minimum investment requirements and/or withdrawal restrictions; and v) the actual fees charged to an account. There can be no assurance that an account opened by any person will achieve performance returns similar to those provided herein.
